May I ask will the ama be through asks like this one or in the comment section of your ama post? If through asks, I'd love to know if we'll get to see any trans characters in the future of world of gardian!! In recent months I've grown a little fond to the trans Avia headcanon, being how she seems to not fit into her family at all, the feeling of being different and needing your own place. (And in that breath, are you okay with headcanons and things like that?)

Hello there! Should've answered this one a bit ago, but had my media break. Yes, we most definitely will see more trans representation in Gardian! Though Avia is a canonically cis character, I don't mind head canons at all, and I love that people can find inspiration in my characters to create their own stories. I answered previously about trans representation:

> Yes to both! It's already being written in—there is a trans character featured in the main cast. The second version of AOS will openly have both trans masc and trans fem representation.

> Though I didn't specify it in the first version, Atlas is canonically a trans man; that'll be clearly established this time! 🏳️‍⚧️
